Customer Reviews

INITIAL THOUGHTSI loved Shalini's Outside series and really enjoyed her writing style, but that was my favourite genre. This one is described as a chilling suspense, not the type of genre I would usually choose. Still looking forward to reading as I consider myself a Shalini Boland fan"THOUGHTS WHILST READING8.0%"How will the missing young woman know who she really is? How can she go "back to her life" when she doesn't remember who she is."8.0%"So her boyfriend has come forward to "claim her" like a lost umbrella?"38.0%"As more about her and her life is revealed Mia seems to dislike herself and her life even more"75.0%"So maybe Mia's

"accident" wasn't actually an accident at all?"83.0%"Wow I didn't see that one coming!"REVIEWI received a free e-arc copy of this book directly from the author in exchange for my honest review. The cover is a view underwater, there is a female deep under the surface. I love the mushy blue colour used on the cover and the fact the title and the authors name are in varying shades of the same colour. There's a great byline on the cover too, which says "The more she remembers, The less she wants to know". It really fits the book well. Would the cover make me pick this one up from a bookstore shelf? Yes, I think the cover catches your attention and encourages you to think about the girl, why she is under the water etc. So the main character is. . . well to begin with we don't really know who she is and neither does she either! hence the title "The Girl From The Sea".
