E.M.P.: The End Of The Grid As We Know It (All At Once Book 1)

Synopsis

The United States may have just come to an end in this exciting post-apocalyptic, dystopian thriller about several electromagnetic pulse (EMP) attacks all at once. Not only has the electrical grid come crashing down, but all other critical infrastructures of the country have ceased to exist, leaving the country a vast wasteland, where only the ruthless and resourceful survive. Jim Burkett is stuck on a business trip when it all happens, and he must battle prison breaks, food riots, criminal gangs, looters, cannibals, terrorist sleeper cells, nuclear fallout, and otherwise total anarchy in his quest to get home to his family. Will he make it?

Customer Reviews

Damned good read. Spoiler alert. This one starts with jihadists working from Iran and plans to take down the grid in the US. Of course the US has no idea this will happen. There are sleeper cells already in the US who will now be activated. The grid will be taken down all across the country leaving people without electricity or working vehicles. It won't take long before people will be killing others for what they have. The rest of the world will be affected as well. North Korea will invade South Korea and fighting will be going on across the globe. Jim Burkett is a salesman and he's at a conference in Charleston, SC. He's going to receive an award and is now in the back of the room listening to some rather boring speeches. Burkett was in the Army and was deployed for the first Gulf War. He's an expert marksman and a guy who knows how to take care of himself and survive. He's also a bit of a prepper and lives outside Knoxville Tennessee where he and his wife and daughter live on a ranch. They have neighbors who live on ranches and who will be teaming up in the event of a major catastrophe. They are all preppers and have chickens, livestock and gardens. If anyone can survive it these folks. The main speaker right now is the company owner. A man who suddenly collapses as the lights go out. The mans son tries to save his father but its hopeless. It takes Jim a few minutes to figure out exactly what happened. After looking out the window and seeing cars stopped all along the roadway and interstate Jim figures they have been hit with an EMP. The dead bossman had a pacemaker that quit which is the reason he collapsed and died. Jim isn't going to hang around Charleston, he's going to head home to his wife, daughter and friends. .
