Synopsis

The best way to keep your word is never to give it. Not long ago, in a chapel in Vegas, I swore to love Karissa for the rest of my days. But nobody's promised an infinite number of tomorrows. Nobody's promised forever. Sometimes, all we have left is today. Carpe Diem. Seize the day. It should've been over, we should've been happy, but people are making it hard for me to live in peace. I've got so much blood on my hands they'll never be clean, and somebody out there seems to want me to pay for it. Happily Ever After always comes at a cost, one any real man would be willing to pay. But that doesn't mean I'm just going to roll over and accept these consequences. Because when it comes to the woman I love? The life I've fought for? Nobody is safe.

Customer Reviews

5 I Never-Want-This-Series-To-End Dear J.M. Darhower, can you make this series go on forever? I can read ten million books on my favorite number tortured hunky killer. Sigh, I love you Naz and I love you too Karissa. I was really happy and surprised with Target on Our Backs. If you are a fan of the series or have this crazy love-obsession with Naz, like I do, then you will understand my excitement. There are no words. I cried when I saw it on my kindle. Karissa and Naz went through a lot of stuff in the previous books. Naz was a liar and a killer, Karissa held on to her resentment and anger. BUT at the end of the day, all was well. The thing I love about Target on Our Back is that it continues the story of Naz and Karissa, but all the problems they faced were external. Yes, they still have issues, but they never let it get to them. It doesn't hinder the relationship or the love they have for each other. If an author can make tension, but not really have tension between the couple, to me that makes for a great author and read. I devoured Target on Our Backs, it was a non-stop read. I couldn't get enough of it and like I said, please write more books! I don't care if Naz is in his 60s, I'll still read it. Naz works on being better for Karissa, not for himself. God, I love this man. He doesn't have regrets and I don't think he feels guilty for much, but the things he does are for Karissa, because he loves her. He continues to protect her and at all cost. I LOVED THAT. Karissa and Naz have an open and honest relationship now. Naz doesn't hold any secrets, but he also doesn't talk about what he does. If Karissa wants to know all she has to do is ask. Karissa is still in college and she's kind of coming to terms with being Naz's wife and what all that entails.

Must say that this book is the least I liked of the series. The only reason why I picked this one, was because I enjoyed the second book very much, 'Torture to Her Soul'. Naz continued to be a bad mother... fcker, although in a good way! He is such an odd character, like really, who does not like music? He still struggles with acting romantic, or does he really try? I like to think that he perceives showing emotions is a weakness, how sad. Although he softened his bed behavior somewhat in this book, he showed us how brusque he still is in bed. Although I started liking Naz in the second book, I finally fell for him in this book, despite the fact that aside from Karissa all he thinks about is killing, lol. I thought that the chemistry between them was stronger on a superficial level. The reason I say this is because their relationship lacked passion, intimacy, even though they frequently made love, or whatever you want to call it. Still there was a sense that there were secrets harboring, despite their eagerness to tell each other the truth. Even though he acts so tough, he could also be "cute" in particular when interacting with his wife. As weird as Naz is, it was peculiar how he acted so out of character when engaging in sexual acts in public, not to mention being a bit disrespectful towards his wife. I liked Karissa more in this book than the previous ones. There was a level of maturity not that obvious before. I know how many readers got this, but I certainly did not fully understand Abele Abate, the cab driver's role. Ok, what were his initial intentions when he changed directions, I do not believe it was because he was being followed. Also, I did not see much science in Lorenzo following Karissa, those scenes went over my head! Can someone help me out here?
