Praise for Crazy on Board: "It all seems like good clean fun, until you realize you've been reading these madcap adventures straight through and you totally forgot you had to pee before you even sat down and now it's too late because you can no longer hold it and laugh at the same time. If only my undergarments were as absorbing as these charming and disarming stories." - Peyton Price, author of Suburban Haiku "Heather Davis' Crazy on Board will leave you snort laughing while simultaneously rethinking your own vacation, just in case." - Jennifer McMurrain, author of Winter Song

All of Davis' books are comical but this one is hilarious due to my own love for travel and the snafus that have unfolded over the past 3 decades (plus being southern & a teacher). I will be using my summer school work commute for reading more of her books.

Really funny, reminds you of family vacations growing up. I enjoyed the stories when she was a kid more than as an adult traveling with her own family. There is just something magical about the vacation experience through the eyes of a child.

Heather Davis always has me trying not to laugh too loudly or boisterously in the middle of the night. I nearly shared some of her experiences with weak bladder control just by laughing so hard. She takes experiences everyone has had to some extent or another, but Heather's unique personality and voice take them to an unimaginable level of humor.

Having read other works by Davis, I was prepared to be amused and to identify with what was likely to be a long list of "incidents" woven together in a conversational tone that sets the reader at ease. She did not disappoint. While giving us a glimpse into the dozens of escapades she has experienced while traveling, she will make you giggle (if not laugh) out loud. Her descriptions are so vivid, you can picture yourself there and her down-to-earth family will make you feel like you've discovered some long-lost cousins. If you've ever had a family trip not go as planned, you can identify with this book. It's comical, universal, and a great summer read!

A wry witty humorous collection of anecdotes based on the author's travel. Anyone who has ever traveled with family will recognize some of the incidents. This collection of adventures is just as funny as the other three of the TMI series. I would recommend them to anyone wanting a laugh. It made me recall the memories of bus trips, camping, and family time in the car. Take the trip and you'll enjoy remembering the past and knowing that we have experiences in common.

I laughed and snorted and guffawed and then landed knee deep into a memory pool of my youth that included hurraches and Mexican Wedding Dresses. I bought this and then bought it again to give away to my friends. Are you traveling this summer? TAKE THIS BOOK WITH YOU!

Once again TMI Mom, Heather Davis nailed it! So many "me too" moments in this book. If you have ever traveled with parents, a spouse or kids, you must pack/download this book for your next trip!

I have read all of Heather's books They never disappoint. However, this one took me places on my own road trip in my mind. Chapter after chapter, in between laughing and leaking a little pee, I remembered my own road trips of my youth, and of late. I could relate to each and every chapter. That is the brilliance that is Heather Davis. So buckle up, and get on the road with this uproariously fun read! Perfect to read while at the pool, cuddled up on the couch, or while on your own fun road trip...just don't read it and drive!!!!
