*SOME SPOILERS*I love the Argeneau Series. Some are better than others, but all are a fun, fast read. Until this one. Where I finished the others in no more than a couple days, I struggled to finish this one. It's probably the only one I will never read again. That's a bummer because, like many fans, I've looked forward to reading Justin's book and I feel he was cheated. I understand why Ms. Sands gave him a married life mate. He gave everyone else such a hard time while they tried to woo their life mates, Justin needed a difficult time with his. But, Justin didn't woo his life mate--no matter how much time he spent on flowers, picnics, dinners, etc. All Justin did was try to find ways to get her into bed. I got the impression the only reason he wanted a life mate was so he could experience life mate sex. It was all about the sex with Justin. He was told purposely erroneous things about Holly's likes and dislikes, and he used this in an attempt to bed her so he could experience life mate sex. Period. That was his sole goal throughout the entire book. Unlike many of the other immortals, Justin had no real appreciation for a life mate. And why, for the love of God, did it take him nearly the entire damn book to realize Anders and Decker were lying to him??? I seriously began to doubt his intelligence. I thought it a bit unrealistic that he believed them in the first place. I don't feel Ms. Sands dealt with the married life mate situation very well at all. Justin had no respect for her married state whatsoever. In fact, no one in the book had any respect for her married state; they were all trying to help him find ways to get her to break her vows and leave her husband. Holly was at least adamant that she was not going to make her marriage work.

I was so disappointed with this book. I have always enjoyed the Argeneau novels and anxiously waited for the next release. For that reason alone I gave it two stars instead of one. This book was so far off base from her previous story lines I couldn't help but wonder if someone else wrote it. Also, the usual characters are no where to be found. Lucien shows up briefly a couple times. Marguerite makes an appearance in the final chapter. SPOILER ALERT The story was basically as follows: Holly a whining, immature woman, meets an equally whining, immature Justin. Holly runs from Justin, (with scissors in her hand, of course) when she see him disposing of dead bodies. He stands there dumbfounded because he can't control her, which means she is likely his "life mate". When he finally goes after her he, of course, can't catch up to her, even though he has immortal speed. She falls, impales herself, he turns her. Justin is excited he has found his life mate and now can have wild monkey sex. That is all he talks about for the entire book in relation to finding his life-mate. Holly is married to a man who is as clueless as everyone else in the book and just as unlikeable. Their marriage is so dysfunctional it is truly unbelievable. Mind you this is coming from someone who reads vampire novels!! That covers the first 4 chapters. The next 12 chapters have them living in the same house while he and several other immortals train her and consist of Justin talking about getting Holly in bed, although, he rarely talks to her and avoids her as much as possible. While Holly whines about not breaking her wedding vows. Literally nothing else happens!
