Midnight Mysteries: Nine Cozy Tales By Nine Bestselling Authors

Synopsis

Ritter Ames • Organized for Masked Motives • (Organized Mysteries series) Kate McKenzie never dreamed when she started her business, Stacked in Your Favor, she'd spend nearly as much time crime solving as organizing. But with Halloween approaching and too many items on the to-do list, she and Meg Berman find themselves in another puzzling dilemma where every answer leads to another question.

Morgana Best • No Time to Witch • (The Kitchen Witch mystery series) In a historical mystery prequel to the novel MISS SPELLED, Thelma Spelled must discover the mystery around a murder that entangles her and her husband. The paranormal tale reveals more about the magic of the house and early 20th century Australia.

Karen Cantwell • Celt Takes a Ghost • (tie-in to the Sophie Rhodes mystery series) New detective Brenna Sage can't solve a series of robberies until she gains a partner in the guise of Marmaduke Dodsworth. While Marmaduke is better versed in decorum and refinement than forensics and interrogation, he has one decidedly clear advantage: He can walk through walls.

Carolyn Haines • Clacking Bones • (Sarah Booth Delaney series) When Jitty's husband, Coker, goes missing from the Great Beyond, Sarah Booth Delaney, Tinkie, and all the animals sign on to find out why the spirit is AWOL. Sarah Booth has to dig deep into the past to find the answer to this puzzling mystery.

Eleanor Cawood Jones • Salad Days, Halloween Nights • (author of A Baker's Dozen) A vegetable-loving chef has cooked his way into trouble when a Halloween treat leads to murder. If he wants a happy future, he must first make sure the police don't have him down as the main ingredient in a recipe for a prison sentence.

Larissa Reinhart • The Vigilante Vignette • (Cherry Tucker Mystery series) When Cherry pays a mercy call on a neighbor, she's roped into a quid pro quo deal if she recovers a stolen family heirloom both somewhat embarrassing and due to be discovered missing very shortly, the neighbor will use family clout to help her with zoning issues. But if she fails, the expression someone's got her goat takes on a whole new meaning. And when she discovers a thievery ring, illegal auctions, and green-eyed emotions after spotting Luke where he's not expected, it's another hilarious day in Halo, Georgia.

Connie Shelton • Spellbound Sweets • (Samantha Sweets Magical Cozy Mysteries) It's Halloween, one of the busiest times of the year for Samantha Sweet and the crew at her pastry shop, Sweet's Sweets. The gang looks forward to a gala costume party at the neighborhood bookstore, but the evening takes a different turn when a guest is murdered, a rare book vanishes, and Sam finds herself in the midst of another mystery.

Maria Grazia Swan • Weeping Moon • (Lella York Mysteries series) Lella York has a way of getting herself into trouble, even when she's doing volunteer work. Who's the mysterious storyteller, and what's going on at the senior living center? Will Lella find out before it's too late? LynDee Walker "Frightening Features" (Nichelle Clarke Mystery series) Not a patient recovery patient, while Nichelle Clarke waits for an injury to heal all she really wants is a story to write and research "hard news to get her mind occupied. Instead, her boss gives her a fluff piece. Not her idea of fun. But with Nichelle snooping around, it's not surprising her soft story takes a decidedly hard turn.

This is a great collection filled with wonderful novellas that is just in time for the fall season. Each tale is better than the last one....that is not indicative of the order I read them in, as I hopped around as they appealed to me. This has novellas by some of my favorite authors and I would gladly pay the full price for any one of them. To get them all for less than a dollar is phenomenal. This is a must read for fans of the genre. Snag this one quickly before it disappears.

LOVE, LOVE this Halloween Anthology. I'm familiar with all these authors and feel like I'm friends with them. I actually found most of my books on FB.....due to the fact that I love cozy mysteries and found some of these authors on there. If you are looking for fun, humorous seasonal mysteries then this book is for you. I guarantee that you will fall in love with these authors and their stories in this book. I read on the Kindle and brought it everywhere with me so I could read them. I like to laugh out loud and I'm not embarrassed to do so. Buy the book for $.99.....you have nothing to lose but something to gain.....a fun Halloween mystery by 9 great authors!!!!!! I couldn't put it down. I'm hoping that they will come out with a Christmas one.....that would be the topping on the cake ;).....get it now for the price will go up and then the book will disappear. I grew up reading and it's still my passion. You will fall in love with these authors and want more.....I guarantee it!! Thanks my friends for putting this anthology out and just so you know.....I actually did my homework and bought more books that some how I have missed ;).....Reading is my passion and I look forward to more of your series.....BUY THIS BOOK.....you'll love it!!

[I received this book in exchange for an honest review. In no way did it influence my ideas]I am really beginning to LOVE short mystery anthologies!Each of the 9 stories of this book are focused stories about the characters we may already know. If not, there is enough "backstory" to "catch you up." And most of these authors are well known to the "cozy crowd". Characters like Kate McKenzie(Ritter Ames), Sarah Booth Delany(Carolyn Haines), Cherry Tucker(Larissa Reinhart), Lella York (Maria Grazia Swan) and Nichelle Clark (LynDee Walker) get wrapped up in the strangest bunch of "one sit wonders" that help bring out the wonder and mystery of the holiday. However, there are new-to-me authors in this series as well: Morgana Best's Thelma Spelled, Connie Shelton's Samantha Sweet, Karen Cantwell's Sophia Rhodes, and Eleanor Cawood Jones spin on celebrity chef Jackson Bell.This is a book you can read, one story at a time, or all in one sitting. Old familiars and new friends will keep you entertained throughout the dark nights of early fall. Keep 'em coming...we can't get enough!

Midnight Mysteries is a collection of nine stories of various lengths all by different authors. Some I liked better than others because they were favorite authors of mine. Those included Connie Sheldon, who had written a full length book, Carolyn Haines, who wrote a Sarah Booth Delaney ghost story, Morgana Best, who wrote a short paranormal almost time travel prequel to her Miss Spelled series, Ritter Ames, who wrote an actual Halloween story complete with costumes and organizing a garage, and more. The nice thing about the book (other than it's fantastic price of 99 cents!!!) Was lots of familiar characters, and lots of approaches to the fall holiday season. Each well written story was a treat, and with this format you could read just a little while and complete a story. Perfect for when waiting in the car for children to finish their activities. The bonus that all the authors were excellent storytellers should make everyone want to buy this set of Midnight Mysteries!

I was given a free copy of this book in exchange for an honest review. If you're like I am, Halloween is a mixed blessing -- candy followed by guilt. Midnight Mysteries offers a delightful solution -- a sample from nine different writers with NO guilt! I'd read and loved the Cherry Tucker series by Larissa Reinhart and Headlines in High Heels by LynDee Walker, so I was confident that I'd enjoy this anthology. I did more than silently enjoy it. I laughed out loud through parts of stories and re-read that section again only to find myself racing through another section to reach one of the best parts for me -- the great reveal -- who did it? What I enjoyed most about this anthology was the diverse approach to my favorite genre. I found hints of romance along with mystery, suspense, and the supernatural which I didn't think I'd enjoy, but did. I highly recommend this collection because it offers a great introduction to writers you may not know yet as well as treats from those you already love. Oh, about the guilt -- my only guilt would be that my TBR list grew! I can live with that.

I was so happy to receive a digital ARC of this book and I wasn't disappointed. After reading this I want to start decorating for Halloween now and not wait for October to arrive! I really enjoyed all of the stories. I was really happy to read Karen Cantwell's "It Takes a Ghost." Great to have a short story featuring Marmaduke! I now have some new authors to look up and get their books. I was really glad that Morgana Best's is a prequel so I can start her series from the beginning. It's still very hot here in AZ so it was really nice curling up and reading about Fall and got a few chills, especially from Carolyn Haines' "Clacking Bones!" Overall a great group of stories that will keep you reading!
